This is Our Moment

More than 40 years into our mission, HLAA is the strongest it’s ever been. Through an unrelenting pandemic, together we’ve met the needs of our community and continued to adapt and grow. We are now stepping into an historic time for hearing health in the U.S. and HLAA has had a key role in these improvements.

Hearing health is finally beginning to get the attention it deserves, and the door is opening to greater awareness and accessibility.

A Voice in Policy and Legislation
This year, HLAA continued fighting for access to quality hearing care and brought our voice to real solutions. I am so proud that HLAA hosted the very first Patient-Focused Drug Development Meeting on sensorineural hearing loss with the permission of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA).

We advocated for years for hearing aid coverage to be added to Medicare and we’re gratified that it was written into proposed legislation. Though the legislation is stalled, we continue seeking paths to meet the needs of older Americans who are at greatest risk of hearing loss.

We made progress on legislation allowing over-the-counter hearing aids, which will change the way some adults take a first step to address their hearing loss. With the president’s urging, the FDA moved to publish proposed rules for these hearing aids, and HLAA went to work to ensure the rules fully protect consumers.

A Voice in the Media
Through these key events, HLAA furthered its voice as an expert in the field. We appeared in TV news, major newspapers, podcasts, radio and niche publications. In the media, and working with our coalition partners, we made the case that hearing health is critical to overall wellness.

The World Health Organization issued the first-ever World Report on Hearing which laid out a global care model for hearing across the life course. HLAA provided numerous comments, giving important context and raising awareness.

Growing Our Impact Together
In this report you’ll find the highlights of a busy and important year. This work is possible thanks to our members and volunteers, donors and sponsors, and health and hearing care providers. Thank you for embracing our mission and sustaining us with your time, talents and donations. I want to recognize HLAA’s board of directors, and our staff and Chapter leaders whose energies never cease to amaze me.

As we celebrate HLAA’s impact and look to the future, with you, we are well-positioned to increase our outreach and impact even further. We are united in our common goal to lead the charge for hearing health at this crucial moment.

With appreciation,

Barbara Kelley
Executive Director
HLAA hosted the first ever Externally-Led Patient-Focused Drug Development Meeting on Sensorineural Hearing Loss. The event brought together patients and caregivers, FDA officials and researchers, industry, health providers and other experts in hearing loss. The goal of the meeting was to hear the stories of people living with sensorineural hearing loss and inform the FDA and industry in the development of therapies and technology solutions. Sensorineural hearing loss is the most common type of permanent hearing loss and results from damage in the inner ear.

More than 400 people participated and had the chance to make comments. Thanks to our 58 partner organizations and especially these companies for their support: Acousia Therapeutics, Akouos, Decibel Therapeutics, Frequency Therapeutics, Otonomy, Pipeline Therapeutics and Sensorion.

The Voice of the Patient report is a resource for researchers and innovators and for people with hearing loss seeking strategies and treatments.

“The participation of people and their families in this meeting is absolutely critical, especially when thinking about the safety and efficacy framework of new therapeutics.”

– Gavin H. Imperato, M.D., medical officer, Office of Tissues and Advanced Therapies, Center for Biologics Evaluation and Research of the FDA welcoming participants
The Industry-Consumer Alliance for Accessible Technology (ICAAT) is preparing an interactive web portal to bring industry together with consumers to stimulate more accessible and responsive technologies. This project is a collaboration with Gallaudet University and the American Institutes for Research and is supported by a grant from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

Get in the Hearing Loop has inspired a national movement of volunteers who are changing hearing access in public places through advocacy and education. Program volunteers reached more than 2,000 people this year, encouraging hearing loops in more public places such as government buildings, libraries, museums, theaters, supermarkets, places of worship and airports, trains and taxis. A preferred listening system for many people with hearing loss, hearing loops directly connect hearing aids, cochlear implants and bone conduction devices to audio sources. The program is funded by the David and Carol Myers Foundation.

The U.S. Transportation Security Administration named HLAA a 2021 Coalition Partner, recognizing our efforts to enhance the experience of people with hearing loss while traveling. HLAA webinars, survey data, best practices and COVID-19 screening considerations led to better interactions between TSA officials and travelers.

Communication Access in Health Care is a critical issue for which HLAA has had a long-standing commitment with its primary focus on patient self-advocacy. In 2020, HLAA established a program with a broadened vision that includes collaboration with a range of health care stakeholders. This year's efforts focused on establishing relationships with providers, administrators, researchers, policymakers, and patients and caregivers to facilitate change and enable reliable communication access in all health care encounters.

The Hospital Safety Program brings together advocates from hospitals around the country who share information about the accommodations their facilities have created for patients with hearing loss.
HLAA advocates took a stand on the issues that matter most to people with hearing loss.

Working with Congress and the White House, HLAA addressed top policy priorities aimed at investment in hearing care services. We educated members of Congress and key committees about the importance of hearing aids for people 65 and older and the need for provisions in the Build Back Better Act. Thanks to our work along with coalition partners, the act that passed the U.S. House of Representatives in November 2021 included Medicare coverage for hearing aids and an historic investment in Medicaid services. While the Build Back Better Act failed to pass the Senate, we continue to explore all paths to Medicare coverage of hearing aids and hearing care services.

Over-the-Counter Hearing Aids will soon be on the market, and HLAA reviewed and presented comments on the FDA proposed rule that was published in October 2021. Ten other organizations signed onto the comments HLAA prepared, providing a consumer perspective on the regulation of this new category of hearing aids for adults with mild to moderate hearing loss.

HLAA Chapter and State Organizations fought for change, as our volunteers and advocates pressed for state and local legislation on issues such as captioning and insurance coverage for hearing care. A bill proposed by the HLAA New York City Chapter, and overwhelmingly passed by the New York City Council, now requires city movie theaters to offer weekly open-captioned screenings for every film.
HLAA Chapters and State Organizations and their members have been on the front lines since COVID-19 first hit. Our chapters have overcome challenges and shifted their work to support their communities through online and video education and outreach. Online meetings furthered collaboration between chapters and created opportunities for people to find added information and support.

HLAA Groups Online Community has created a forum for volunteers to discuss current issues and to support and share ideas. Members can join interest groups for HLAA leaders and HLAA newsletter editors, topic groups on advocacy, technology and hearing loops, or follow the HLAA Veterans Across America Virtual Chapter. There are 417 members who participate in this national platform.

HLAA Sun City Center Chapter Leader Eloise Schwarz was awarded the 2021 Nonprofit Award from the South Hillsborough Chamber of Commerce for the chapter’s exceptional work.
With dialogue on pressing topics our educational initiatives were accessible to more people.

HLAA Webinar and Virtual Meeting Series presented 24 free, captioned events this year.

The Employment Task Force brought HLAA leaders together with company representatives committed to accessibility to share resources and ideas. The group developed a survey to better understand the issues people with hearing loss face in the workplace and while seeking employment, which was administered fall 2021. They also launched a series of HLAA webinars.

We Hear You, Now Hear Us Talkback Live spotlighted a new documentary featuring four people living with hearing loss. Produced by HLAA members Holly Cohen, Shari Eberts and Roxana Rotundo, the film was named Best Film on Disability at the 2021 Cannes Film Festival.

HLAA 2021 Convention was a two-day virtual event. Captioned workshops addressed assistive technology, communication access in health care and more. An interactive platform allowed attendees to participate in a digital Exhibit Hall where they could talk directly with exhibitors and industry partners.

The Annual Research Symposium Hearing Care for All: Innovations in Extending the Reach of Hearing Care, featured advances in delivering hearing care to communities underserved by clinic-based care and looked at cases in remote Alaska villages, the city of Baltimore, and neighborhoods along the U.S.-Mexico border. Hearing care leaders and community-based providers brought a range of expertise and perspective to the discussion. The event was supported by the National Institute on Deafness and Other Communication Disorders, National Institutes of Health.
Walk4Hearing was held in 19 cities. Participants gathered online and in-person to raise hearing health awareness and funds that help people with hearing loss in local communities.

Donors listed made a gift to the HLAA 2021 Giving Campaign and provided their permission to be included in this listing.
Joy is the greatest gift that HLAA can give, and it comes from the connection, support and activism that are at the heart of our community. With your support, we can engage more people who need our help, provide resources that empower, and advocate so the rights and needs of all people with hearing loss are met.

Mission Circle
We’re grateful for our monthly donors whose generosity funds our work throughout the year.

Meg and Joe Duarte have been giving monthly since 2016. They met at the very first HLAA young adults meeting in 1982 and have been HLAA members throughout their married life. They are passionate advocates for communication accessibility and achieving equity through education and technology.

Katherine Bouton gives monthly because she knows she can make a greater impact than she ever would with a single annual donation. A past member of HLAA’s board of directors and previous president of the New York City Chapter, Katherine has contributed to our education and advocacy work greatly.

Amy Beckettell has been a member of the Mission Circle since 2006 and an HLAA member since the 1990s. She’s been involved with our efforts in Atlanta, Denver and Arkansas and is now a leader of the Western Colorado Chapter.

Joe is the Co-CEO of InnoCaption. Meg is a high school teacher for the deaf and hard of hearing in Fairfax County, Virginia.

Amy knows the importance of steady revenue and wants her contributions to provide assurance of sustained funding for planning.

“HLAA gave us the awareness and courage to live more powerfully and never limit our dreams and goals. We support HLAA because it made a difference in our lives, and we love seeing the difference it continues to make for others.”

– Joe Duarte
People are looking to HLAA as a trusted source of timely information, and they know we will respond with pertinent perspective. Our media presence has grown as reporters and the public seek to understand our issues.

A new Hear This blog from HLAA leaders shared insights on hearing health topics including over-the-counter hearing aids, isolation, accessibility and advocacy.

Hearing Life magazine became available online in the summer of 2021. This shift enables us to share more stories with the public.

HLAA Community and Support Facebook Group—The moderated discussion group grew to 2,500 members this year. People asked questions, shared ideas and sought advice about hearing loss therapies and treatments.

HLAA is a partner for the Hear Well, Stay Vital campaign. The powerful awareness campaign reached a value of $10 million with placement of public service announcements in 108 U.S. media markets and 245 stations. Developed by the Hearing Industries Association (HIA), the campaign promotes hearing health and encourages a behavior change so that hearing wellness will become routine. We amplified the campaign through digital media and are proud to partner with HIA along with other major hearing professional, research and advocacy groups.
