

HLAA Invests in the Next Generation of Audiologists

BY RONALD TALLMAN

The HLAA Sun Lakes Chapter awards outstanding leadership scholarships to one student from each of the three audiology schools in Arizona: Arizona State University, A.T. Still University, and the University of Arizona. The chapter reaches out to the local universities to honor selected students.

Now in its sixth year, this year's recipients, selected for their outstanding scholastic standing, involvement in community outreach programs, and their leadership within the audiology program, are:

Jaysen Moreno, Arizona State University
Anna Fowler, A.T. Still University
Ivy Ho, University of Arizona

"It is such a privilege for our HLAA Chapter members to give these awards. These young students will one day enter the world of audiology and treat people with hearing loss," says Ron Tallman, president of the Sun Lakes Chapter.

Anna Fowler | A.T. Still University

Barry Forst, treasurer, Sun Lakes Chapter; Anna Fowler, scholarship recipient; and Ron Tallman, president, Sun Lakes Chapter.

Jaysen Moreno | Arizona State University

Jaysen Moreno, scholarship recipient; Brianna Cole, scholarship recipient from the HLAA West Valley Chapter; Erica Williams, Au.D., clinical professor, College of Health Solutions, Arizona State University; and Barry Forst, treasurer, Sun Lakes Chapter.

Ronald "Ron" Tallman is president of the HLAA Sun Lakes Chapter in Arizona. Sun Lakes is a small suburb of Phoenix. Email Ron at rontallman1@gmail.com.

Ivy Ho | University of Arizona

From top left to right, Jo and Bob Frazier, Sun Lakes Chapter board members; Ron Tallman, president, Sun Lakes Chapter; Barry Forst, treasurer, Sun Lakes Chapter; Ivy Ho, scholarship recipient and Erica Hansen, Au.D., clinical faculty, School of Audiology; David Velenovsky, Ph.D., audiologist, University of Arizona, and Tom Muller, Au.D., clinical professor, University of Arizona.